DR. TUTHILL'S CLASS VISITS STATE HOSPITAL

Students Given Opportunity to Observe Work of Curing the Mind.

CONDITIONS ARE GOOD

The class in sociology of the University, instructed by Dr. James E. Tuthill. visited the Eastern Kentucky Hospital on Fourth Street, last Mon-

The visit was made to study the condition of the insane and provisions made by the State for caring for these unfortunates. The visit was made in connection with instruction in sociology and was illuminating, but it was by no means pleasing to look upon those who had sought such retreat to coax back diseased minds to their former state of health.

The superintendent of the hospital and his assistants showed marked courtesy to the class who take this means to express thanks for their helpful interest and in showing them through the wrads.

The condition of the buildings was favorable. Everything appeared to be in high state of sanitation, however, many wards were crowded on account of the influx of patients in the last three years.

The new tubercular ward is a valuable annex to the establishment. This is said to have been built by money saved from appropriation made by the State.

The management is to be congratulated on this step. Should they be able to get an increase of appropriation enough to build two large dining rooms, thus removing the dining rooms from the wards, there would be sufficient room to care better for the

The plan will be followed throughout the year and several of the students are doing work for the local papers. Some of this work is the re porting of general news happenings, while some of the advanced students are given practice in writing dramatic and book reviews.

TBANSYLVANIA VS. UNIVERSITY STARS

Not since 1910 has State University. students had the opportunity of seeing the Crimson warriors on Stoll Field The All-Stars, who meet Transylvania November 21, for a matinee performance, are made up of men who in times past have fought as wearers of the Blue and White. In 1909 Dick Barbee made the only points scored against Central. Les Guyn in fall of 1911 defeated Central by a drop kick from the forty-yard line and in spring of 1912 beat Transylvania in one of the best baseball games of that season. J. White Guyn, captain of State College team in 1906, has fought many times for victory against Transylvania

"Doc" Rodes played three years with the Wildcats. In 1911 he made the only touchdown registered against Central. The same year in a game at Carson field, Cincinanti, he practically won the game for the Wildcats. The TO ARRANGE PROGRAM Inquirer on the following morning gave the score, "Doc" Rodes 19, Cincinnati 13. The struggle will be characterized by the same spirit as of old gridiron days when these stars met Transylvania in the annual struggle. U. OF L. ATTRACTION ON NEXT SATURDAY

Falls City Team Has Taken Brace and Will Give Wldcats a Merry Scrap.

LAST HOME GOME.

The rejuvenated University Louisville team will furnish the attraction at Stoll Field next Saturday afternoon, this being the final appearance at home of the Varsity this year. Since their overwhelming defeat at the hands of the Tennessee warriors the Cardinals have taken a wonderful brace and are out for the scalp of the Wildcats. The Falls City team held Wabash College to a 7 to 3 score. The Wabash team was defeated by Purdue 26 to 0. The Boilermakers then beat the Wildcat machine 40 to 6. That gives the Cardinals a shade on dope, but in the game as it is played today, dope counts for little.

The Wildcats are not the least down hearted over their defeat at Purdue and are out working hard for the contest with the Cardinals. Coach Brumage has been teaching them several new formations and they will spring them if necessary. Our boys came out of the Purdue game in fair shape, Scott and Park being the only ones not able to indulge in a spirited practice that Coach Brumage held Monday afternoon. Scott has a bad ankle and Park injured his shoulder. Both expect to be in the game Saturday, how ever, and so watch out for the Wildcats. Losing two straight games has not had a soothing effect on their temper and the Cardinals are the crowd that the Blue and White eleven are going to take it out on.

WILDCATS LOSE GAME TO PERDUE BOILERMAKERS

Heavy Purdue Team Have Little Trouble Defeating State; Score 40 to 0.

LONG RUNS FEATURE

Out-weighed and out-classed, the Wildcats lost to Purdue last Saturday by the score of 40 to 6. The Blue and White eleven was out-weighed about twenty pounds to the man, but as usual gave a pretty exhibition of open football and earned all that they gained. The Purdue eleven is well palanced and strong, and the Kenuckians were unable to pierce their defense for any consistent gains.

The Boilermakers started the scoring in the first quarter when Pults was sent over for two touchdowns on straight football. Turner made one goal but missed the other, making the score 13 to 0. Only once did the Wildcats show what they could do, they getting the ball long enough to run over a first down and gain five yards toward another. Then a forward pass went wrong and the speedy VanAken intercepted it and made forty yards before being caught. The first quarter ended with the ball on our four-yard line in Purdue's posses-

In the second quarter State secured he ball on the twenty-yard line after Purdue pass had been dropped over the goal line and made several good gains against the Boilermakers. On he thirty-five yard line they held and secured the ball on a punt. Abrell made forty-five yards on two runs, placing the ball on the five yard line from where O'Brien made a touchdown. Turner kicked goal. State kicked off and VanAken, Pultz and Abrell made long runs, bringing the ball to our thirty yard line. Here Pults missed a drop kick and State ecured the ball on the twenty yard ine. Tuttle made a nine-yard run, but Abrell picked up a fumble on the next play and recahed the five yard ine before being downed. VanAken made a touchdown and Turner kicked goal. The half ended shortly after with the score standing, Purdue 27, State 0.

In the third quarter Coach Smith sent in his whole second team against he Wildcats. They scored a touchdown early in the half when they secured a Kentucky fumble and pushed he ball over by straight football. On the next kick-off the Kentucky boys showed what they could do and eet. In the final quarter the Purdue Varsity team was sent back against the Wildcats, who held them better than they had done in the preceding periods. Their only touchdown in this quarter was made by Pultz, Turner kicking goal. The game was about over in this period, the Wildcats holding at critical moments, although the Purdue eleven had the bail most of the time. The game ended with the ball on State's thirty yard line in Purdue's possession.

Tuttle, Wright and Park played star game for the Wildcats. Park made some beautiful passes before being injured and the other two did some pretty work on the receiving end. The Hoosier fans say that they had never seen so good a team for their weight as the Wildcats.

Captain O'Brien, VanAken, Pults and Abrell repeatedly pulled off long runs for the Black and Gold team, while Blocker, who is being boosted for an All-Western job this year, played a star game in the line.

The Purdue team comes down to Lexington next year and will battle with the Wildcats in their own back yard, and as a matter of courtesy, should be sent home with a score against them.

DR. ROBERT GRAHAM FIGHTING DISEASE

"Foot and Mouth" Malady Calls Experiment Station Scientist to Chicago.

Dr. Robert Graham, head of the Department of Veterinary Science, left Monday night for Chicago, to begin a thorough investigation of the scourge of foot and mouth disease now raging in Illinois and other states. He will spend a week or ten days investigating conditions in all parts of Illinois Station switchboard. and possibly in neighbornig states giving special attention to remedial measures and regulations.

As the disease has already appeared in Bullitt County, Kentucky, the most drastic measures will have to be adopted here, as in the other states affected.

THE VALUE OF HOME ECONOMICS TO THE CITY

In a recent discussion of the importance of teaching Home Economics from the standpoint of the value to emphasized:

Home economics workers have always considered the housekeeper a part and parcel of the problem in establishing Home Economics on a sound and educational basis. There should not be any question but that the education of woman for her position in the home or for any occupation stands in as dignified a position as the education of the boy for his position as engineer, farmer, teacher or physician.

Social service work is today an organized profession in every country and a graduate of Home Economics must fill the place of head of it; for if these poor people are to be taught the real niceties of life and are to be uplifted, it certainly must be done in a scientific way. Many of the large cities as New York and Chicago as well as some smaller cities, are rea lizing the importance of this statement.

There is also a demand for scientifically trained women in many of the large factories. Some of the managers of these large factories have taken up problems of lunches for their employees, from a standpoint of efficiency. They furnish their employees with one real meal a day which has accomplished an unthinkable amount of good.

Mrs. Root, in New York, is at pres ent proving a great success in the preparation and serving of factory lunches. In the lunch room, the quick service and the restful quiet of the carefully planned menu and the combination of the two has done

RETROSPECTION.

In the history of our institution there was a time when a large number of those who entered the Freshman class came from the Academy, or "prep," as it was formerly known. The "prep" has passed and with it its mission. With the establishment of one or more high schools in nearly every county of the State, the "prep" department was no longer needed, hence it was selves abolished. The academy is gone for all time, but to those who knew of its work, it still means much and affords advantageous comparison with the more modern institutions that have taken its place.

The increased number of high schools enables the University to receive a greater number of students each year, but the question that arises and should be carefully watched is whether the gain in numbers is or is not at the expense of quality in acquisition. Inferior preparation for a University course would mean inferior accomplishment in the University. The high schools of Kentucky are responsible therefore for the excellence or lack of preparation of students who enter this institution, and the world will hold State University of Kentucky responsible for the finished product of man and woman it turns out each year. If there is laxity in preparation inferior work in the University must follow and instructors should see to it that when there are high school delinquencies, if any there be, they should be brought up with diligence and intelligent handling.

It is a reputed fact that few pupils in high school ever fail; that the inferior students pass merrily through, with the superior ones when they are then ready for college. Of course any particular high school will make a showing in point of numbers of graduates. Fond parents are made happy, trustees are congratulated, and principals are re-elected for the coming year with increased salaries. Such a condition is without a doubt unfair to higher institutions and when it arises should be vigorously and promptly met.

The spirit, interest and individual effort of a student in college are inspired largely by his teachers. The student does not draw his inspiration from the text book. His interest in a subject depends upon the ability of his instructors to vitalize it and make it mean something to him. There are sides turkey to be thankful for that some who think that an instructor's duty consists in assigning lessons, asking day. question and indulging in a little easing of his conscience by way of pointing out the horrors of "flunking." A little auto-inspection is hereby suggested.

The time will soon be here when she will refuse to take in that class of students who come chiefly to indulge in the social gaieties of the winter season at the expense of their own mental upbuilding.

STATE STUDENTS AT Y.M.C.A. CONFERENCE

Seventeen Representatives of University Take Part in Meeting.

Fifteen students, Secretary E. L. Hall and Judge Lyman Chalkley attended the Students' Conference of Kentucky Young Men's Christian Associations, at Winchester, November 6 to 8.

The student delegates from A. H. Weilenman, W. R. Lindsay, Clifford T. Dotson, J. T. Gelder, Raymond Sims, Elmer Robertson, J. Nickell, Frank Kennedy, George H. Hill, J. O. Reynolds, Charles R. Stephens, E. A. Edmonds, M. C. Redwine, Wm. Maupin and Joseph W. Robinson.

The conference was held three days, from the 5th to the 8th, opening Friday evening with a banquet at the for whose assistance this present Fraternity Building. Frank Kennedy topic has been propounded. Some of was chosen to deliver the students' rseponse to the address of welcome.

The most appreciated and most valued part of the evening program was a talk by the Rev. J. M. Mason, president of Margaret College.

The reports of all the associations represented were made Saturday morning and talks were made by Rev. J. M. Maxon, Mr. P. C. Dix, State Secretary of Y. M. C. A.; Mr. E. Saturday dilletanteism, or equilibrium, or intelafternoon Judge Chalkley addressed the faculty conference. Sunday afternoon a mass meeting for young men was held. This was the most enthus iastic session of the conference, the feature of which was the address of Dr. E. H. Poteat, president of Furnam University, Greenville, S. C.

State University, before the Faculty Conference of Kentucky Young Men's Christian Association, Winchester, November 7, 1914).

PRACTICAL MEANS BY WHICH FACULTY MEN CAN PROMOTE THE RELIGIOUS LIFE IN THEIR INSTITUTIONS.

The practical promotion of the religious life in our colleges will begin with the promoter and not with the person to be worked upon. Those who undertake the burden of the movement will be divided naturally into two classes, equally important but differing in activity and direction. The line will be drawn between them upon considerations of the influnece upon the wavering will of numbers showing sympathy and joining in the applause on the one hand, and the choice and influence in the forming of their charuse of means and methods to an end on the other. It will be the duty of us, each, to be present and remain present at the line up, ready, attentive, in open view, speaking by our "They also serve who only stand and wait." The attitude of standing ready, of being in evidence, of declaration of principles by silent protest, of openly taking a stand, must be the foundation of all effectual accomplishment whether we belong to the one or to the other class, the supporters or the active propagandists. Indeed, the most effectual work is done by the silent object forcing itself should be done over and over again, upon contemplation through the physi- so that there can be no question in the cal sense. mighty things wrought Silently builded, thought on thought

Truth's temple greets the sky. And, like a citadel with towers,

The soul, with its subservient powers, Is strengthened silently."

Daniel Webster said that "the strongest argument for religion that he knew was an old aunt of his who lived up in the New Hampshire Hills. George Eliot said that one having that most characteristic quality of a true Christian, the putting away of falsehood, and the purging of bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamor, and railing, and all malice, makes an "impression like a fine quotation from the Bible in the midst of a newspaper paragraph."

The other class will be composed of the workers, those who, in addition to obstructing, resort to methods and expedients to give impetus and momentum to the movement, those topic has been propounded. Some of us will never be successful at this phase of the work for reasons that are apparent. As a first item of self cultivation and equipment for such a campaign, the promoter must realize that the religious life is in equal measure as important a province of growth and development in our institutions, if not more important and far reaching, as the physical and intellecing conviction. There is no room for lectual poise, for sectarian, or even religious dogma; nor is there call for the suffering spirit of the martyr or the abstraction of religious ecstacy. On the contrary, the call is for the warrior's spirit, for force and enthusiasm, for assertion and reiteration, for policy, tact and diplomacy. Above all, there must be no hesitation and no (Paper by Judge Lyman Chalkley, of lack of buoyant heart. Swinburne says

And second in the catalogue of items of self culture, he must recognize the sacred responsibility inherent, imported in his own calling; that, whether he will or no, if he is success ful as a teacher, his pupils will idealize him as an individual and a person and he will thus exercise a powerful acters as well as their minds. His failure to testify by assuming a favorable attitude will inculcate principles of evasion and duplicity; his refusal to assume the burden of the propagandum will instil the germ of moral cowardice.

I should lay it down as a first practical method of promoting the religious life:

1. He may give it his unequivocal countenance in all his intercourse with students, and announce emphatically and positively his belief by way of dogma in his class room. This structor stands.

2. He may single out individual students who indicate capacity for be active promoters or not. 4. He may stand between the offender and retributive justice, remen bering that Christ came to save the erring, thus demonstrating in a specific application that religion lives as a principle of action as well as an object of contemplation.

5. He may have students at his sacred family meal, thus evidencing to them that he recognizes the bond of human relationship reaching back to a common God.

6. He may enlist students with himself in such activities of social service as his environment calls for; visitation of prisons and institutions, care for the dependent and defense less, carrying new and refreshing ideas and ideals to the ignorant and benighted through reading, speaking and acting, through music and pictures, and establishing communion of human interest and sympathy with growing boys and girls by engaging in their interests.

7. He may enlist students with himself in active participation in local, state and national political movements, looking to the cultivation of higher ideals of citizenship, to the inculcation of the duty to vote, to the establishment of a more sensitive regard for the obligation to the community, and the arousing of a com munity spirit.

8. He may take active part in en couraging and conducting classes of students in the study of the Bible, not only as containing the rule of Christian faith, but also as the guide and director of the seeker after God.

9. He may call his student fellow members of the same religious denom ination to his support and utilize fra ternity membership for the same pur-

He may make himself a conduit and vehicle to transmit the achievements, the traditions and the spirit of preceding sessions from term to term from one class to the succeeding.

11. He may inspire his fellow instructors with his conviction by per sonal appeal and by appearing before them in his capacity of promoter and proclaiming his gospel. They can be gotten together in groups for the purpose, or they may be reached by adapting a part of the proclamation to them on other occasions.

12. He may act as assistant and promoter to the Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in calling his attention to opportunities for service and directing him to students who show capacities, themselves, to be serviceable Let him realize that the Y. M. C. A. is the servant of the Church and also its portal, leading to the inner shrine and performing through compact and through organization, in its name, many functions which the Church cannot at present exercise.

13. He may make a practice of appearing in the college gatherings, community, local and group, and speaking to the point. I emphasize both the appearing and the speaking. He should strive to arrive at the critical point of attack, indifference, scoffing, the spirit of good fellowship, intemperance, women, idleness, ignorance, lack of acquaintance with the Bible, lack of standards of conduct, fack of reverence, lack of moral stamina, false ideals or whatever it may be, and concentrate all effort upon that point. He cannot afford to dissipate his effort or his energy. He must make a single, certain issue, and he must sustain it. He must become the exponent and the interpreter, and advertise his cause by thus being in evidence in his person and bearing his propagandum inscribed upon his ban-"Excelsior.'

14. Among the most important of all, perhaps a sine qua non, he must look carefully and eternally to himself, continually renewing each season, his own fires of enthusiasm and inspiration by taking advantage of every opportunity to attend the gatherings of his fellow workers, to mingle with them in the atmosphere of communion and retreat, to seek and receive the spirit of service.

3. He may enforce the effect of his SCHENECTADY ALUMNI PERFECT ORGANIZATION
